Catalonia, in Spain: the Tió, the log that brings presents

In Catalonia, in the north east of Spain, families look after a log called the Tió from 8 December, keeping it warm under a little blanket. On Christmas Eve, children tap it with sticks and sing to it, then lift the blanket to find sweets underneath.

Remember this

In Catalonia, children tap a log with sticks and sing to it, then find sweets under its blanket.

Say it: Tió (tee-OH).

Five-minute activity

Draw your own Tió with a smiley face and a cosy blanket. Then make up a short, polite song asking it for a treat, and sing it together.
